Control

The Milledgeville Provisionals

The E01 and E03 provisionals were prepared by handstamping a "PAID" marking with closely spaced letters and a "5" or "10" rate on envelopes. An undated Milledgeville postmark was added as a control.

The E02 and E04 provisionals were prepared by handstamping a "PAID" marking with widely spaced letters and a "5" or "10" rate on envelopes. An undated Milledgeville postmark was added as a control. The "PAID" marking is easily identified by the wide space between the "I" and "D."

The E05 provisional was prepared by placing "PAID" and "10" markings in the undated postmark that was used as a control on the E01, E02, E03, and E04 provisionals. The "10" is tall and thin.

The E06 provisional was prepared by placing "PAID" and "10" markings in the undated postmark that was used as a control on the E01, E02, E03, and E04 provisionals. The "10" is shorter and wider than the "10" in the E05 provisional marking.

Notes

The Curious Cover

The cover below is the only example of a Milledgeville provisional that may have the town postmark used as a control. Both markings have a raised “a” in the postmark – the characteristic of the town postmark. The marking on the right is a dated postmark. The marking on the left appears to have no date and thus appears to be a control. However, Milledgeville postmarks are notoriously poor strikes and many times part, if not all the date does not show. Thus, this could be a double strike of the postmark. It is very doubtful if the date logos would have been removed from the office postmark that saw continuous use throughout the war when another undated postmark was available and used as a control. This cover is in the census.

The Chameleon Cover

The adversity cover below changes its appearance depending on how it is folded.

E06; 18 Nov [186-]; CN-026

Problematic Uses

Boxed Postmark – The cover illustrated below is an E04 provisional without the usual circular Milledgeville postmark. Instead, there is a boxed straight line marking with a 19 December date. The boxed marking is problematic.

This marking is problematic because the circular Milledgeville town postmark with raised “a” was used before, during and after the war. This indicates that there was never a need for any other marking. Further, if needed the circular postmark used as a control could be used as a town marking. It is probable a faker found a Milledgeville provisional cover without a postmark and added the boxed marking. This cover received a “No Opinion” from the Civil War Philatelic Authentication Service (Certificate 05274). It is included in the Census as “No Postmark” provisional because the provisional marking and control are authentic (CN-038).

E04; No Postmark; CN-038

The same boxed marking was applied on the cover below. In this case the boxed marking is on a cover with a 10c blue engraved stamp. The stamp is pen cancelled but does not appear to be tied to the cover. This is suspicious. If the stamp is not tied to the cover how do we know it originated on the cover. If the stamp did not originate on the cover then the authenticity of the boxed marking is questionable. This cover received a good certificate from the Philatelic Foundation (246191).

The boxed marking was probably prepared from a marking used by businesses to date stamp correspondence or a registered marking like that illustrated below.

In the above illustrations note the similarity of the boxed Milledgeville markings to a registered marking. The boxed marking has a horizontal line just above the center as best seen in the middle image. A horizontal line is also seen in the registered marking at right. Assuming the boxed marking was made from a correspondence dating device, all the faker had to do was remove the old type and insert Milledgeville Ga. and the date.

Manuscript Postmark – The cover below is the only Milledgeville provisional cover with a manuscript postmark. Further no other Milledgeville cover with a manuscript postmark was found. For this reason, the cover is suspicious. This cover is included in the census.

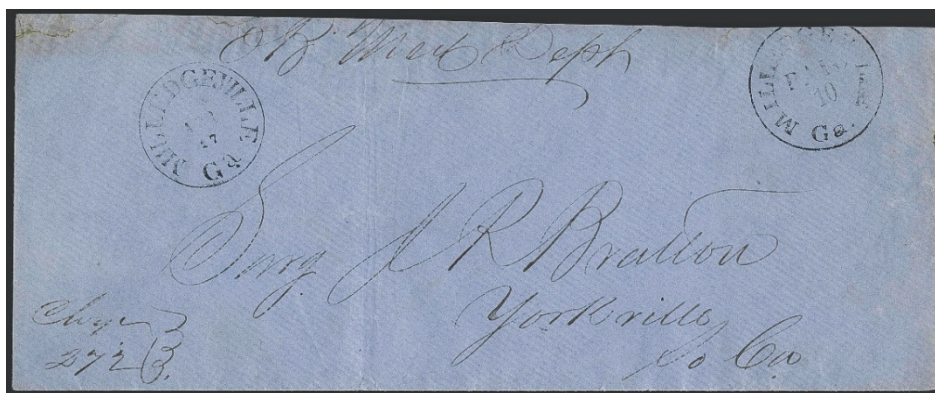

E06; 1 Jul [186-]; CN-025

Charge Box Markings – Provisional covers with charge box markings are suspicious as the notation was usually applied to stampless letters.

The first cover on the next page (CN-020) has a faint charge box marking under the provisional marking. The second cover below (CN-031) has a charge box marking at lower left.

E05; 7 Apr [186-]; CN-020

E05; 27 Apr [186-]; CN-031

Stamp Added – A 20c stamp was added over a 5c provisional on the cover below. The postmark and control are authentic. For that reason, the cover is included in the census.

The Philatelic Foundation opined that the stamp did not originate on the over and the tying marking was counterfeit. Otherwise, it was a genuine provisional use (116313).
