Notes

Comparison of “DUE / 10” Marking Used Before and After 6 June 1862

Memphis fell to Federal forces on 6 June 1862. Uses of the Memphis due markings should have ceased after that date. However, starting in late 1863 there are at least 12 covers bearing what appear to be the Memphis DUE / 10 markings.

A close comparison of the “DUE / 10” marking used at Memphis prior to June 1862 with the same markings used after June 1862 show only minor differences (see below).

“DUE / 10” up to 6 June 1862

“DUE / 10” used after 6 June 1862

These may be the result of wear or how the marking was struck on a cover and the contents of the cover. It is also possible the marking was a stock marking although no other example is known from a Confederate town. For this reason, no conclusion is made on the origin of the marking used after June 1862.

Recorded uses of the “DUE 10” Marking after 6 June 1862

The 12 recorded uses of the “DUE / 10” markings used after June 1862 are illustrated below.
